Ground Broken for New Structure, Company Informs Council.

Ground has been broken for construction of a new storage and maintenance building for the Marion Rapid Transit Co. on West Center street west of the Big Four railroad tracks, officials of the company reported to members of city council at a dinner meeting in the clubroom of Hotel Harding Tuesday night. Materials have been received and the building is expected to be finished by Sept. 1.

Constructed of cement blocks and brick, the building will be used as a storage, garage and maintenance shop for the present fleet of buses and new ones expected to be bought as demand for extended service grows. It will be 200 by 50 feet and contain modern facilities for servicing buses.

Officials reported that work of overhauling equipment and replacing tires, which was promised when the franchise was renewed in progressing according to schedule. All buses will be painted gray and white as rapidly as possible. Speeded up schedules on the Center and Davis street line and the Silver and Mt. Vernon runs have already been put into effect.

The Oakland Heights loop has been reversed on recommendation of the police and safety-service director to avoid a traffic hazard caused when buses laid over at the intersection of Davis street and Woodrow avenue.

All members of the city council were present with the exception of Harold Robinson. Also present were Mayor Harry L. Dowler and George T. Gorman, attorney for the company. Officials of the company reporting were Robert Maag Sr., Ray Maag, Fred Maag, Leo Hill and Sheldon Dodds.

Church Studies Restoration Program at Meeting Here

Speakers Explain Restoration Work as Marion Presbytery Meets at Forest Lawn Church.

The work of the Presbyterian church in the spiritual healing of war-devastated countries in Europe and Asia, and the forwarding of the denomination's work in America through the restoration program of the church, was presented by two outstanding speakers, Rev. S. R. Franklin Jr., S. T. M., and Dr. Claude M. Stewart, at a meeting of the Marion Presbytery last night in the Forest Lawn Presbyterian church. Rev. Franklin is acting secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions in the central area, with headquarters in Chicago. Dr. Stewart is director of the Synod of Ohio.

Approximately 175 pastors and lay representatives of the more than 30 churches in the presbytery attended the meeting, which was preceded by a dinner held in the Community house, with Rev. L. V. Baugurs as the host pastor.

A great door of opportunity has opened to us, Rev. Franklin said in presenting the work which has been outlined for the war-devastated countries, and which will be financed through the $27,000,000 restoration fund of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A. for relief and rehabilitation at home and abroad. Pointing out that the peoples of the world are looking for spiritual help to fill the vacuum existing today, he urged as a need new standards of honesty, morality and spiritual values.

A chaplain in the Pacific theater of operations for two and one-half years, Rev. Franklin was able to give a first-hand picture of the spiritual and material needs of the people in the war-torn countries. Citing the millions who are hungry and without homes he emphasized the immediate need of help from the Christian world to not only restore the faith of the people but to save them from turning to Communism or similar doctrines. He called especial attention to the needs of the children of these countries and predicted that of the one million orphans in Poland and 40 per cent will die from lack of care and nutrition. "Today," he declared, "the world is watching to see what we of the Christian church will do with this costly victory and breathing."

Mission of Church

"War, which creates suffering in tremendous degrees, is followed by peace and after that the healing which is the mission of the church," Dr. Stewart told the audience in discussing the twenty-seven million dollar rehabilitation fund. The sum, he stated, was arrived at through careful and thorough study by businessmen, lawyers, laymen and ministers. This is the first time the Protestant church has had a voice in world affairs and it is the great chance of our church to help our friends in Europe and Asia, he stated, and added that "the stake is large, especially in Asia." In discussing the work of the church in wartime he said that the underground was formed by Protestants and that the workers had to "lie, steal and cheat." Now, he declared, they must be helped if they want to be. "The Protestant church must do its duty now in the cause of civilization, which change and all its tools, we had better do our job and do it now, or communism will take over where we fail; our debt to the past creates many current responsibilities; the present must not fail the past—restoration is our job."

Atomic Leak Called "Ominous Situation"

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 20—Legislation designed to safeguard atomic energy secrets took shape today after the senate heard that an "ominous situation" was presented by the arrest of a British scientist who worked in an American laboratory.

The activities of Dr. Alan Nunn May, now held in London on a charge of violating the Official Secrets act, were detailed in a letter from Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, head of the atomic bomb project. The letter was read to the senate yesterday by Senator Hickenlooper (D-Iowa), a member of the special atomic energy commission.

"To the extent that this letter reveals at least a part of the activity of this man May," Hickenlooper said, "it presents an ominous situation."

Hickenlooper said he believed a general knowledge would be "dangerous" if scattered "at will or in a subversive way."

Among questions still to be settled by the committee is the severity of punishment to be prescribed for violators of atomic secrets.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

"Sit down, Mary," her uncle said gravely, and with a quick, alarmed look at his face, she obeyed him, then leaned forward in her chair, her face and eyes tense.

"Something really is wrong," she said. "With my foot getting it thought Auntie Madge wanted me for something connected with my own foot puzzle. But—who is it? Has there been an accident? The boys?"

Beginning of An Attack

"No, no, Mary," I said quickly with emphasis. "But your grandmother has had the beginning of a heart attack, which Aunt Katharine says she will be able to ward off."

"Where is she?" Mary demanded, and her voice was filled with poignant anxiety. Her love for her old grandmother is very strong.

"In the next room where Aunt Katharine is taking care of her," I said, and she sprang up from her chair.

"I may go to her, mayn't I?" she asked, but rushed toward the door as she spoke, without waiting for permission.

But I was at the door as soon as she was, and stood with my back against it.

"Aunt Katharine does not want any help, but she wants to keep your grandmother very quiet," I said.

Then I added a quick warning, murmuring from the side of my mouth.

Something Important

"There's something important on hand. I must see you alone. Play up!"

"Okay," she responded laconically, in similar fashion, and then walked docilely back with me, and sat down in her chair again.

"I must tell both of you first," I said, "that Olga is insisting that we all come to luncheon with her today."

"I know," Mary said. "She just called, to say that she had had to change her plans and that everybody was coming to luncheon."

"I thought everybody was until a few minutes ago," I said. "Now I must tell her that Mother Graham can not possibly leave her own apartment, and that some one must stay with her."

"Count me as that some one," Mary said promptly, with an impish grin. "I love my in-laws," she went on. "I don't believe any wife going loves hers better. But my idea of nothing to go into a swing rhythm about is one of the Philip Verletzen formal luncheons. I'm always in mortal terror for fear I'm breaching the wrong fork, or breaking one of the rules of court etiquette."

Prompt Answer

I knew she was rattling the nonsense off to enable me to stage whatever interview I wanted with her, and my answer was prompt and decisive.

"I weep for you, the Wilbur said," I quoted, "but you must not be the one who stays with Mother Graham."

Mary stared at me with cleverly feigned incredulity, and I knew that she was "playing up" as I had asked her to do.

"And why not, pray?" she asked. "Am I not her very own blood kin—her oldest granddaughter?" And haven't I taken a Nurse's Aid course, in everything? And I know all anybody has to do when she's resting after an attack is to keep her quiet, read to her, or something like that."

Dicky Scoffs

"Yes, I can see you," her uncle scoffed. "Your idea of keeping her quiet would be to act out Ophelia's mad scene for her benefit."

"If you remembered your Shakespeare, or ever had read it," his niece told him, "scratching by you'd know that Ophelia isn't terrifying at all; just plaintive and lovely. But I didn't say act for her, I said read to her, and I'll ask Aunt Katharine to select the book."

"I'm sorry," I said firmly, "but you simply must attend that luncheon."

My husband's eyes mirrored astonishment now, and he vociferously echoed Mary's emphatic monosyllable: "Why?"

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN HUNDENSEN, M.D.

Nosebleed

Nosebleeds may all seem alike to the average man, but to the doctor they can tell many different stories.

At times, nosebleed may indicate the presence of serious disease, but fortunately, in most cases, it is a minor rupture of the delicate blood vessels of the front part of the septum or cartilage which forms the partition between the two nasal chambers.

In this area, there is a real network of veins which lie close to the surface and are normally distended with blood. Understanding this, it is easy to see how even slight things, such as coughing, sneezing, blowing the nose or even bending forward, may be enough to cause one of the vessels to break open.

Bleeding may be profuse and continue for a long time even when the break in the vein is barely visible. In other parts of the body, when a vein is injured, it tends to shrink back and bury itself in the surrounding tissues, which compress it and thus help to stop the bleeding.

In the septum, the veins are fixed to the surrounding cartilage and thus cannot shrink when broken but remain open, thus permitting a free flow of blood until a blood clot is formed and seals the opening.

Picking the nose often results in bleeding because this part of the septum is so easily injured. The fingernail breaks the veins near the surface of the lining membrane. Not only does blood flow from the nose, but bleeding into the lining membrane also occurs.

Secretions in the nose dry and stick to this area and persons are tempted to remove the dried secretions with the finger and thus new hemorrhages begin. If the process continues, an ulcer or sore of the mucous membrane develops. Then, the underlying cartilage may be damaged and finally an opening all the way through the septum occurs.

Thus, when nosebleed starts, the first thing the doctor does is to examine this portion of the nose. If the bleeding point is seen, he can put pressure on it with a cotton pack or a piece of gauze, or the pack may be put into the nose and then pressure put on the septum by squeezing the nostrils together from the outside. It is suggested that the pack be left in on the bleeding side for about 24 hours.

After the bleeding has stopped, the doctor may touch the bleed-

Congressman Tells Senate Committee Sad Shorts Story

By ARTHUR EDSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON, March 29—Disgraced members of the house banking and currency committee now know all about the serious shorts shortage at the home of Rep. Jesse P. Wolcott (R-Mich.).

They know all about it because Wolcott, a member of the committee, told them himself. The committee took time out this week to listen to a shorts story by Wolcott.

Over the week-end, he said, he tried to buy some shorts for 16-year-old Jesse Jr. All he could find were priced at $1.50 or $1.65. "There is one difference between these shorts and the shorts we used to buy for 35 cents, or three pairs for a dollar," he said mournfully. "The difference is this, the high priced shorts are made of sleazy material."

He then turned to the witness, Robert R. Wason, president of the National Association of Manufacturers.

"Don't you agree that a deterioration of quality is the same as an increase in price?" he asked. "It's everywhere," agreed Wason. Wolcott turned to shorts.

He said he had noticed some sport shirts, but "a lot of us are not sports."

Your reporter was anxious about Jesse Jr. Wolcott said he sought out after the hearing, and you'll be happy to know that, in spite of everything, Jesse Jr. will be fully clothed.

"I finally bought him some knitted ones at 60 cents a pair," said Wolcott. "I wouldn't think of buying him the other kind."

Nimitz Sees Danger in Navy Fund Cut

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, March 29—Adm. Chester W. Nimitz told the house naval committee yesterday that a proposed $2,100,000,000 Navy budget cut will have a "very serious effect" on America's position in world affairs.

The chief of naval operations told the committee that the proposed slash will mean a reduction of 114 ships in the active fleet. Nimitz asserted it would take a "minimum of six months" to bring the Navy back to its 1943 fighting strength if an emergency arose.

"If the nature of the emergency were such that demobilization could be stopped," he said, "I would estimate that a minimum of six months would be required" to rebuild the Navy to its strength of last fall.

Age of 200 Veterans Seek Cross Help Each Month

200 veterans, the people of the United States and the Red Cross, are helping each other. Approximately 300 telephone calls are made each month through home service. Many of the calls require only brief service which can be completed by telephone interviews without a visit to the home. Health and welfare reports flow constantly between chapter and field directors on location in army camps and at navy stations. The servicemen overseas can get in contact with home if he needs to through the Red Cross field director attached to his outfit. Also in home emergency, the family can contact the service man through home service. More than 20 situations a month have the kind of difficulties which require more intensive, long continuing help. Only one case in 20 needs financial assistance. Regardless of the situation the information must be at the fingertips of the home service worker, so it can be readily understood the training necessary and the service the American Red Cross can be to the people of Marion county.

Block Your Digestive Tract

Top Dosing Your Stomach with Soda and Alkalies. It is a common mistake to get relief from heartburn, gas and bad digestion by taking soda and other alkalies. The true cause of your trouble is a blocked digestive tract. Some people get relief by taking soda, but it is only a temporary relief. The real trouble is not in the stomach, but in the intestinal tract. If your digestive tract is blocked, it fails to move food to move along in your own digestive juices. You get genuine relief by taking a really good laxative. It acts at any digestive tract from indigestion.

DEMOCRATS UNHAPPY OVER WALLACE PLAN

By The Associated Press. WASHINGTON, March 20.—Henry A. Wallace started Capitol Hill speculating today whether he intends to spearhead a drive to force the major political parties to take a firm stand on top economic and international issues.

He also failed to make the Democratic leadership especially happy by his dynamite-laden proposal that the party banish recalcitrant members who refuse to go down the line on major items in the administration's program.

The fact that this is an election year made the suggestion unwelcome to party chiefs trying to woo back Democratic legislators who have strayed from the administration's reservation in recent weeks.

Senator Hatch (D-NM) summed up one portion of Capitol Hill reaction to the proposal of the secretary of commerce that both parties expel members who desert on big issues.

"My impression is that Secretary Wallace was trying to point out the essential differences and hoping for a realignment of political parties in this country," Hatch told a reporter.

At the same time, Senator McKellar (D-Tenn) voiced speculation that the background might be connected with possible ambitions of one of Wallace's closest political friends, Stabilization Director Chester Bowles. He has been mentioned as a candidate for the presidency.

OHIO REVEALS DEATH ROADS

Survey Shows Traffic
Accidents Concentrated in Trouble Spots.

As the Associated Press
MARION, O., March 20—
A survey of traffic accidents reported in 1945 revealed that 16,000 miles of rural roads were concentrated in trouble spots, the report showed.

Chief engineer, suggests that the findings be used for programs of widening, relocation and future construction.

More than one-fourth of all the rural traffic accidents happened on only three per cent of the state's rural highways, the report stated.

The highest number of accidents per million miles of travel in Ohio last year occurred on a strip of U. S. Route 33 one-tenth of a mile long on the Fairfield county line at Canal Winchester. The report showed 722 mishaps for each million miles.

Explains Figures

Asked how a tiny section of highway could have millions of miles of travel in a year, Neal explained that under the survey system used each mile of road with a 24-hour traffic flow of 2,700 vehicles would aggregate a million miles of travel during the year.

Second worst trouble spot listed was the .4 mile section of State

Route 14 on the Columbiana county line at Washingtonville, which had 27 accidents per million miles of travel.

A portion of U. S. Route 50, a third of a mile long, between Cincinnati and Mariemont had the next worst record with 102 accidents per million miles of travel.

Total travel during 1945 was estimated at 4,300,000,000 miles, an increase of 20 per cent over the previous year. The average number of accidents throughout the state's rural highway system was 1.9 per million vehicles miles, the report said.

On longer sections of highway the greatest number of accidents, 58, occurred on a six-mile strip of Route 4 between Fairfield (Greene county) and Montgomery county.

Route 42 Dangerous

Forty-nine accidents on six miles of U. S. Route 42 from Mansfield to the Ashland county line was the second worst record in this category, followed by 41 accidents on 9.5 miles of U. S. Route 35 from Xenia to the Montgomery county line.

Of Ohio's 12 highway divisions, Division 2 with headquarters at Middletown had the greatest number of accidents, 429, while Division 10 with headquarters at Marietta had the highest accident rate, 4.9 accidents per million miles of annual travel.

Hitler Poisoning of Morals Still Tells on Europe

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP World Traveler

PARIS, March 20—One of the most terrible of the evils which Hitler inflicted on this continent was his deliberate destruction of moral and spiritual fibers, not only in his own country but in conquered territories, to facilitate the enslavement of Europe.

Many folk who abhorred Nazism nevertheless unwittingly became contaminated to the extent that their moral stamina was weakened.

You see, the mark of the swastika in numerous parts of the continent and it provides a great problem in rehabilitation.

Because all phases of society—economic, political, social—are affected.

Germany itself has been hurt more than any other country in this respect. He so far succeeded in destroying religion and substituting his own savage in the minds of German youth that some Allied authorities count many of those between the ages of about 14 and 35 as lost to civilization.

While Hitler brutalized his own people, he did at the same time try to create a high militaristic morale among them. In the conquered countries his object was to destroy not only morals but morale and so deprive the subjugated people of their will to resist his domination.

France Was Goal

France was one of the countries in which the Nazi dictator employed the most subtle poison at his disposal, and he had some five years in which to work. He long had planned to destroy France morally. He wanted to create out of this great country one of the main buttresses of the conquered territories which he proposed to hold in servitude.

There were, of course, great numbers of French people who resisted the Hitlerite campaign to the utmost. Still, my French friends—of whom I have had many these 30 years—tell me that the furtherer did do much damage which is being reflected these hard days in the frightful black markets and in a loss of public spirit in some sections of the population.

The German assault on morals and morale were cleverly plotted. It began with cultivation of the idea that, after all, the Reich wanted to keep France prosperous. By way of proving this the invaders were amazingly free with cash. Money was no object—and why should it be? They took it from the French state treasury with one hand and squandered it with the other in trying to buy the goodwill of the people. Apropos of this, German documents recently discovered here purport to show that some 23,000 Frenchmen applied for German nationality.

Favored Farmers

The Nazis were especially liberal with money among the great farming population, paying high prices without question for foodstuffs. In this way a black market in food soon was created and grew apace with German support. Similar tactics were employed in the cities, and black markets were encouraged for all sorts of commodities.

Hardheaded French folk, who knew the Roche of old and saw through the scheme, fought it fiercely, but it was an insidious thing which many farmers and tradesmen failed to recognize enough. But, thoughtless, dashed along with the Hitlerite tide. Things finally reached such a pitch towards the close of the war that many schoolchildren were doing black market transactions and handling thousands of francs. An upright man found it hard to make a living.

Well, that's the situation from which La Belle France is now trying to extricate herself. The morale and spiritual damage which has been done to a section of the population naturally is a brake on rehabilitation.

It's a serious position—and one which calls for a full understanding among France's friends. We are dealing here not with a problem of economics or politics but with a moral hurt that is way down deep inside the country.

Fire Causes $125 Loss

A loss of $125 was caused today at 12:35 a. m. at the Marion Rapid Transit Co. barn at 656 W. Monroe avenue when a flooded oil line in the furnace ignited. The chief's car and fireman from the West Center street station responded.

... like it and thrive on it."

Mrs. E. E. Durr, owner of Charmin's kennel, said she had been writing "I prefer Kellogg's GAO-PUP meal over every other form of dry dog food for over 12 years. I feed it with cooked or ground meat ... and they like it and thrive on it."

MOST breeders and veterinarians use and recommend a foundation diet of good dry dog food fed with scrap meat, including fat. So many feed Kellogg's GAO-PUP because it provides all the vitamins and minerals dogs are known to need for growth and vigor.

Kellogg's GAO-PUP is thrifty. And dogs love its hearty, meaty flavor.

MANSFIELD PACKERS DRAW $10,000 FINE

CLEVELAND, March 20—
Owners of the Kearns Packing Co. of 222 Wayne street, Mansfield, O., pleading guilty on 11 counts of selling meats at above ceiling prices in federal court, must pay a total of $10,000 in fines.

The joint owners—Edward Kearns, Adam Brandt, Louis Wenger and Roy Samuel—also were ordered by Federal Judge Leslie Barr yesterday to rebate $18,799.22 in subsidy payments received during the past three months to the Defense Supply

Cop
The overcharges covered a period from February to November, 1945, said Asst. U. S. District Attorney Fred H. Mandel, who charged the company had accepted "side money" in addition to involved amounts.
